YES
 NO
 Not Applicable

If YES, please describe your current thinking on this methodology including:

1. Did you, or will you, use multiple curves/rates? If so please describe how these will be applied and how they might differ.
2. Did you, or will you, apply a top-down or bottom-up method to develop a discount rate/curve?
3. If top-down, describe how the yield curve that reflects the current market rates of return implicit in the fair value measurement of a reference portfolio of assets was or may be determined, as well as other relevant considerations requiring judgment (e.g. what was or may be used as the reference portfolio, how a risk premium and expected default were or may be calculated and deducted).
4. If bottom-up, describe relevant considerations requiring judgement such as how a liquidity premium were or may be calculated and how the risk-free rate/curve was, or may be, constructed.
5. What was considered to be the observable period (last liquid point)?
6. Did you, or do you intend to, use a spot rate or a forward rate for the ultimate rate? How is that rate determined?
7. When does it begin to apply?
8. Describe the technique that was, or will be used, if any, to extrapolate between the last liquid point and the ultimate rate. How did or how might the discount curve construction differ by currency?
9. Describe any other adjustments that were, or may be, made.

8.2 Internal Models

Template Sheets referred to in this section:	ICS Other Methods
Key MP Technical Specification sections relevant to this section	9.2.1 Internal Models

The purpose of this section is to enable IAIGs to provide supplementary qualitative information (with respect to the quantitative data submission) to support the assessment of the appropriateness of the use of internal models for the reference ICS. This will facilitate a better understanding of:

- a. The reasons for differences in outcomes between the ICS standard method and risk charges determined by internal models at the same calibration level; and
- b. The nature and scope of application of internal models used by IAIGs

58	Do any of the risk charges calculated using a VaR 99.5% over a one-year time horizon (in 9.2 Other methods) differ materially from the equivalent ICS risk charges determined according to the ICS standard method?

10 Self-assessment Template for Internal Models

IAIGs participating in the additional reporting for internal models should complete and submit the self-assessment template, which assesses the degree of compliance with the list of prerequisites.

The scope of application of internal models is limited to the calculation of the ICS capital requirement and not to other areas of the ICS such as capital resources or valuation (eg MAV). Therefore, the development of internal models is meant to introduce only an alternative calculation of the ICS capital requirement, while the valuation of the assets and liabilities of the IAIG would continue to be calculated according to the methods set out by the IAIS. However, the IAIS expects convergence between the valuation basis embedded in the internal model and the valuation basis for the ICS during the monitoring period.

Prerequisite 1: Description of the scope of application of internal models

Prerequisite 10: Explain how the partial internal model and standard method’s results can be integrated (for partial models)

IM23	Prerequisite 10: Explain how the partial internal model and standard method’s results can be integrated It is essential that the integration of the partial internal model and the standard method results is being carried out prudently and consistently to derive the overall ICS capital requirement. To this end, the IAIG should provide evidence that the partial internal model and standard method results can be integrated. This prerequisite is particularly relevant for IAIGs whose internal model construction does not follow a similar design to the standard method (eg risks have not been defined or split along similar lines to the standard method, the target criteria are different, etc.). Is Prerequisite 10 met?

If YES, please present the results and explain how the internal model results can be integrated within the standard method.
